Gemini Astronauts Test Global Tracking Network

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—Astronauts Walter Schirra and Thomas Stafford, their spaceship and rocket set for launch Monday, today turned to a drill designed to make sure their global network of tracking stations is ready for the Gemini 6 space chase.

The 23 electronic outposts stretched around the world were being put through a day-long series of exercises simulating various portions of the complicated space rendezvous mission.

All the tracking stations were tied into the mission control centers here and in Houston just as if the bell-shaped spacecraft were actually sweeping around the earth.

Rehearsals were becoming a steady routine for the two astronauts. They spent five hours Wednesday in the cramped Gemini 6 capsule running through key parts of their intricate flight.

The 11-hour exercise was the last major test for the spacecraft-rocket combination. It was passed without a hitch, clearing the way for the start of final launch preparations.

Gemini's Agena target rocket zipped through a similar test Wednesday night to show that it too is ready for the unprecedented launch doubleheader Monday.

The Agena will be shot into space first at 10 a.m. EST (11 a.m. EDT) if all goes well, atop a powerful Atlas booster. Then, at 11:41 a.m. EST, Schirra and Stafford will streak after it.

If all goes according to plan, and officials expect changes, the two-satellite hookup could occur on Gemini's fourth pass over the Pacific Ocean and the mission could end after one day. If the rendezvous is delayed however, the flight will go two days.

Schirra and Stafford, in either case, will land in the Atlantic Ocean 600 miles southwest of Bermuda.

Senate Returns Judge Selection To Committee

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate today sent the controversial federal judgeship nomination of Francis X. Morrissey back to the Judiciary Committee — at the request of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

Kennedy has been the leading Senate supporter of the nomination and Morrissey is a long-time friend of his family. The senator, his voice breaking at one point in what sounded like a sob, told the Senate he felt the Boston City Judge's qualifications would be upheld by the committee once questions about the nomination were fully aired.

"Let me say simply that when a man has been unfairly attacked and unjustly accused, I cannot in good conscience desert him," Kennedy told his colleagues.

"I am satisfied that a full and complete record, made with care and deliberation, will uphold my judgment to the satisfaction of any fair-minded man; such a record will result in his confirmation by a greatly increased majority; and that he will be a credit to the federal judiciary."

Johnson's selection of Morrissey has been surrounded by controversy. The veteran Boston ward politician was for many years a right-hand man of Joseph P. Kennedy and has served the Kennedy family in other posts. For the last seven years he has been a municipal court judge.

Morrissey's qualifications have been attacked by the American Bar Association (ABA) as unacceptable. His educational background has also been criticized by opponents of the nomination.

Romney Contends Viet Nam Dissent Is Exaggerated

TOKYO (UPI)—Gov. George Romney said today there has been a tendency to exaggerate the amount of dissent in the United States against U.S. policy in Viet Nam and this might mislead the Communists.

Romney arrived here Wednesday with eight other U.S. governors for a 12-day goodwill visit to Japan.

He told newsmen "within the United States the President's policy has greater support from Republican leaders in Congress than from Democratic leaders, and the lack of support is very small."

He said overstatement of the dissent "misleads the North Vietnamese and Communist Chinese as to the true character of U.S. support of American action in Viet Nam."

"This action must be taken in the interest of peace," Romney said. But he added the Communist concept of "wars of liberation" would have to be stopped in Viet Nam.

Romney and other governors visiting Japan are scheduled to visit South Viet Nam Nov. 5 to 8 at the invitation of U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

Hoffa Battles Costly

WASHINGTON (UPI) Teamsters Union records list more than half a million dollars in union expenditures for James R. Hoffa's legal battles, the Labor Department reported Wednesday.

The department said the expenditures covered a three-year period, 1962-64, and totaled $570,396.84 in legal defense outlays for the Teamster president in federal courts at Nashville, Tenn., Chattanooga, Tenn., and Chicago.

Hoffa is appealing convictions for jury tampering in Chattanooga and misuses of union funds in Chicago. He was charged with accepting illegal payments in Nashville.

A Labor Department examination of the Teamsters' financial records was carried out at the request of 16 Philadelphia Teamsters who complained the union's money was being used illegally to defend Hoffa.

Teamster Union officials would not allow the dissent members to examine the records. The Labor Department received the records only after a court battle.

The Philadelphia members have filed suit in Federal Court here to recover the funds for the union.

The probe into the union's funds was authorized under a law allowing the Secretary of Labor to order such action when he believes it necessary to determine whether there has been a violation of the Labor Movement Reporting and Disclosure Act.

The Philadelphia group claims the union violated the act which states a union must "hold its money and property solely for the benefit of the organization and its members."

The Labor Department's office on labor-management, which carried off the investigation, said the figures were compiled by the Teamsters and no attempt was made by the department to verify them.

The figures listed expenditures of $248,228.59 in Nashville, $292,748.24 in Chattanooga and $29,520.01 in Chicago.

Jap Scientist Also Shares Physics Award

STOCKHOLM (UPI)—Two American scientists and a Japanese whose research is contributing to the development of electronic computers today won the Nobel Prize for Physics. Another American won the prize for chemistry.

The physics winners were Prof. Julian Schwinger of Harvard University, Richard P. Feynman of the California Institute of Technology in Pasadena, Calif., and Prof. Sin-itiro Tomonaga of Tokyo.

Prof. Robert Burns Woodward, also of Harvard, won the chemistry prize for his "meritorious contribution to the art of organic synthesis."

Schwinger, 49, Feynman, 49, and Tomonaga, 59, split the physics award for transforming the so-called "exchange play" between elementary particles into hard mathematical facts.

Their ground work was laid down more than two decades ago when the United States and Japan were still fighting World War II. They reached their conclusions independently, without cooperation.

Each will share the $56,400 prize money.

The Swedish Academy of Sciences, which makes the awards, said Woodward, 48, "has carried out a number of difficult syntheses of complicated organic compounds within the last two decades."

It said his "peak achievement" came in 1961 "when he succeeded in bringing about the complete synthesis of the green coloring matter in leaves of plants, chlorophyll."

In announcing the physics award, Prof. Erik Rudberg of the Academy said the work of the two American and Japanese scientists would probably affect the development of electronic computers and other electronic equipment.

He said the research will "mean a revolution in the thoughts and pictures of solid state physics." He said it was extremely important for the physics of elementary particles.

Schwinger and Feynman were both born in New York. Woodward was born in Boston, Mass.

Reactions Mixed Feynman, awakened by telephone in Pasadena and told of the award, said: "I know about it and I have nothing to say."

Schwinger was "terribly pleased and excited" when informed he shared the prize for physics but then rolled over and went back to sleep, his wife said. The Schwingers live in Belmont, Mass.

In Tokyo, Tomonaga's son said his father was "very much surprised" to hear of his selection as a winner in physics.

Rudberg said Woodward's organic synthesis work has resulted in "several" antibiotics and anesthetics now used in hospitals throughout the world.

He said Woodward's work is connected with the research on cholesterol and fatty acid metabolism which won the Nobel prize for medicine last year for Cambridge Prof. Konrad Bloch and German Prof. Feodor Lynen of Munich's Max Planck Institute.

Today's award boosted the total prize money to $1,200,000.

December Draft To Take Married Men In Michigan

LANSING (UPI)—The December Michigan draft call of 3,394 men, highest this year, will be filled with single men 19 years old and over and registrants who have been married since Aug. 28, it was announced today.

Col. Arthur A. Holmes, state director of Selective Service, said the December draft call is the largest this year.

The increased draft call is part of the United States' military buildup because of the Viet Nam war.

Holmes said if there is not a sufficient number of single men and registrants married after Aug. 28 to meet the quota, draft boards have been authorized to call men married before Aug. 28.

Johnson Told 'Take It Easy'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson, under doctors' orders to "take it a little easy" for the next four to six weeks, planned to leave Bethesda Naval Hospital today and return to the White House.

The 57-year-old Chief Executive entered the hospital just two weeks ago to undergo surgery for removal of his gall bladder and a kidney stone. He was told by his doctors Wednesday he could return to the executive mansion, but on a greatly reduced schedule of activities.

The President was expected to remain at the White House briefly—a matter of days—before continuing on to some still unselected spot for four to six weeks of convalescence. The chances were that Johnson and his wife will go to their Texas ranch.

Johnson was given an excellent prognosis for continued recovery from the strength-sapping effects of surgery. But he also was advised by his physicians to moderate his workload even after convalescence.

"I think he has worked too hard this last year," said Dr. James C. Cain, the Mayo Clinic internist who has been the President's personal physician for years. "It has not done him any great harm, but now we are seeing results of the fatigue... and we hope things can moderate a bit."

Rangers Airlifted Into Sieged Post

SAIGON (UPI)—Vietnamese Rangers and American advisers today were airlifted into a U.S. Special Forces outpost in the central highlands which had been under Communist siege for three days. The guerrillas apparently gave up the attack.

The operation was marred by the crash of an American helicopter due to mechanical trouble. A U.S. spokesman said casualties were unknown.

The Viet Cong, trying desperately to regain lost territory near Communist North Viet Nam's frontier, meanwhile attacked two more government outposts today in Quang Tri province. The raids were repulsed.

The Special Forces camp is located at Plei Me, 215 miles north of Saigon in mountain forests of the central highlands.

At one time, the Communists came so close they were burned alive at the barbed wire defensive perimeter by flaming jellied gasoline dropped by American planes. Ninety guerrilla bodies were counted at the camp.

An American was captured by the Viet Cong and was officially listed as missing in action, but before the report could be sent from Saigon he escaped and managed to return to U.S. lines.

The adviser was identified as Capt. Robert F. Hopper, 29, whose wife lives in Winter Haven, Fla. Details of his escape were not immediately disclosed.

Quang Tri is the northernmost province of South Viet Nam.

The attacks today were against the Bao Cong outpost, about six miles southwest of Quang Tri city, and at La Vang, only one mile south of the provincial capital.

The Viet Cong struck Bao Cong at 1:20 a.m., pounding defensive bunkers and trenches with mortar and small arms fire. The guerrillas managed to sweep into one corner of the camp, gain control of an artillery position and blow up an ammunition magazine.

After flares were dropped by allied planes, the guerrillas fled, leaving behind five dead. The Viet Cong lobbed 60 mortar rounds into the La Vang outpost shortly after midnight, but withdrew a short time later.

Bao Cong is situated 9 miles east of the Ba Long Valley, where the Viet Cong Wednesday lost 94 men by actual body count in a major offensive against a government outpost. It is about 400 miles north of Saigon.

Cookies And Blood

War Support Continues

Campaigns ranging from baking cookies to donating blood continued across the nation today in support of the U.S. role in the Viet Nam war. They were designed to counter the effect of last weekend's protest demonstrations.

Where anti-Viet Nam picketing continued, supporters of U.S. policy staged counter pickets. At Kalamazoo, Mich., about a dozen students carried signs reading "Stop the War." Counter pickets carried signs reading "Bomb Hanoi."

Marine Corps Commandant Gen. Wallace M. Greene Jr., in a speech in the nation's capital Wednesday, called upon demonstrators of U.S. policy to volunteer for humanitarian work in Southeast Asia.

"Let them prove themselves as Good Samaritans by crossing the road to lift up their brothers, to tend the sick, to feed the hungry, to clothe the naked, to shelter the homeless," Greene said.

"Let them do this first, rather than pass by on the other side of the street, with a song on their lips and hypocrisy in their hearts."

Students for a Democratic Society, one of the groups which participated in last weekend's protests, asked President Johnson Wednesday to let young men serve in the Peace Corps or Job Corps rather than in the army. The group said they were prepared "to work and die for liberty as our generation has done in Mississippi and Alabama, but we are not prepared to decimate other peoples' societies."

In Chicago, a spokesman for the Agency for International Development trying to recruit civilian workers for U.S. aid programs in South Viet Nam said the response "has been far beyond our expectations."

He said they hoped to find 20 nurses for service in Viet Nam, and instead found 49 qualified young women willing to go.

Plant For Sale In Steel Strike

WASHINGTON, Pa. (UPI)—A "for sale" sign was up in front of the strikebound Jessop Steel Co. plant today. The United Steelworkers union (USW) held the first option.

"If they (the union) know so much about it, let them run it," Jessop President Frank B. Rackley said.

Jessop was one of five steel fabricators struck by the USW two weeks ago. Little progress has been made toward settling any of the strikes.

Rackley put the "for sale" sign on his plant and left town Wednesday. The union dismissed the sign as a "gimmick."

"Hell, I've known hard times and always am willing to split a buck, but this is ridiculous," said Rackley, son of a blacksmith and one-time office boy to former U.S. Steel Corp. Chairman Benjamin Fairless.

Rackley said the company met "every requirement of the 'big steel' package, and now they want more." He referred to the September agreement between the USW and the nation's basic steel industry.

The strike against Jessop idled 1,500 workers here and 700 at the firm's plant in Owensboro, Ky.

Rackley said he was offering the union "the first option on the purchase of our facilities, based on net worth, or anything else they want to buy."

When Rackley took over Jessop in 1949, it was a shaky concern on the verge of bankruptcy. He built it into a flourishing maker of specialty steels and this city's biggest employer.

After Rackley left, a Jessop official said he doubted Rackley really wanted to sell. "Rackley loves this company. This could be just his way of protesting a strike."

House Probes Klan Spending

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Convinced that Ku Klux Klan bed-sheets hide more than racism, House investigators today pressed a grand dragon to tell where Klansmen's dues go.

The House Committee on Un-American Activities recalled James Robertson Jones, head of the North Carolina chapter of the United Klans of America. They sought details of a complicated financial system built on receipts from sheet sales, "wizard" taxes and klavern dues.

During appearances Wednesday by Jones and Robert M. Shelton Jr., of Tuscaloosa, Ala., imperial wizard of the United Klans, committee members charged the two used Klan funds for some of their personal expenses.

Committee Chairman Edwin E. Willis, D-La., warned the two Klansmen several times they could be cited for contempt of Congress if they continued their refusals to answer questions. Shelton invoked the Fifth Amendment 156 times and Jones more than 50 times.

Shelton, who arrived for Wednesday's hearings wearing a lapel button that said "Never," was excused after his appearance and ordered to come back for further questions Nov. 15. His United Klans is the largest of more than a dozen Klan groups the committee has been investigating over the past six months.

Among Wednesday's charges of unorthodox uses for Klan funds, Rep. Joe R. Pool, D-Tex., said Shelton was using money from an $17,000 Klan bank account for "traveling money, diamonds and groceries."

Donald K. Appell, committee chief investigator, used his unanswered questions at the session to build up a record of Klan activities. He drew laughter with his questions about the sources of Klansmen's ceremonial robes and hoods.

He asked Jones whether a leader's satin robe cost $15 at local chapter prices and if robes came in several grades. This last question prompted

Marie McDonald, Movie Actress, Discovered Dead

HIDDEN HILLS, Calif. (UPI)—Actress Marie (The Body) McDonald, 42, was found dead today by her husband in their home. The coroner's office said her death was a "possible suicide."

Detectors said the Malibu sheriff's station received a telephone call at 5:30 a.m. PDT from film producer Donald Taylor that his wife, Marie, was dead.

There was no immediate indication as to the cause of death.

The actress' career in recent years has been plagued with troubles, among them treatment in Las Vegas in 1958 for a reportedly accidental overdose of sleeping pills, treatment at Sydney, Australia, in 1963 in a psychiatric clinic and conviction later the same year on charges of forging two prescriptions to obtain the pain-killing drug Percodan.

Delta TV Cable Co. Bought By Western Chain

Sale of Delta TV Signal Distribution Co. of Escanaba, which serves this city and Gladstone with cable television to American Cablevision of Beverly Hills, Calif., was announced today by George S. Baldwin, manager of the local cable firm.

American Cablevision is a subsidiary of Jack Kent Cooke, Inc., which has announced that Baldwin will continue as manager of the local utility. Mrs. David Livermore will be office manager and Wayne LaFave and Dennis Aicher will continue as technicians in charge of maintenance and installations.

The new owners, said Baldwin, plan to improve local cable service by converting the system from a 5-channel to a 12-channel capacity system with use of transistor type amplifiers and solid aluminum sheathed cable by April 1966.

Since 1960

The company will continue its offices at 612 Lundington St., in a building which it acquired with the Delta Cable Co. capital stock. Delta TV built its local cable system in Escanaba and Gladstone in late 1959 and started operations Jan. 1, 1960. It has about 4,000 customers in the two communities.

Officers of the expiring local company are Charles Henry, Iron Mountain, president; James Klungness, Iron Mountain, secretary-treasurer; Dick Juntikka, Houghton, vice president. Baldwin has been a director and general manager.

American Cablevision has acquired not only Delta TV Cable, but also Ironwood Community Systems, Inc., serving Ironwood and Hurley; Keweenaw Cable Co. of Calumet serving it and 6 nearby communities; Northern Electronics Cable TV Inc., serving Iron Mountain, Kingsford and Aurora Township, Wis., and it is negotiating for other cable properties in this region.

Largest of Kind

American Cablevision is the largest CATV firm in the nation, serving more than 85,000 homes in California, West Virginia, Minnesota, Michigan (6 systems) and other states, even before its new U.P. acquisitions.

American Cablevision is owned entirely by Jack Kent Cooke, of Beverly Hills, president, who is also owner of the Los Angeles Lakers of the National Basketball Association and a principal stockholder in the Washington Redskins of the National Football League.

Cooke's numerous business ventures include newspaper and magazine publication, radio stations and manufacturing. He came from Canada to become a naturalized U.S. citizen and retire, only to plunge into organization of a vast empire of cable television industry with American Cablevision only a year ago.

Students Offered Scholarship Aid

High school seniors in the 37th Senatorial District wishing to apply for a state scholarship through the Michigan Higher Education Assistance Authority are reminded that the registration deadline is Oct. 31 by State Senator Thomas Schweigert (R-Petoskey).

There are nearly 6,000 scholarships available for the 1966-67 academic year "but it is unfortunate that so many students who could qualify do not because they are unaware of these scholarships established by the Legislature," said Schweigert.

Students may write to the Michigan Higher Education Assistance Authority, 700 Prudden Building, Lansing, for details.

Two Delta County women were ordered to serve jail terms when they failed to pay fines after entering pleas of guilty to a violation of the Michigan game law in Justice Ross Davis' court at Gladstone Wednesday night.

They are Agnes L. Willis, 35, of Rapid River, and Lillian M. Gudwer, 19, of Ensign.

They were charged with the possession of two deer unlawfully killed. Failing to pay fines of $100 and costs of $7.30 each they were sentenced to 30 days in the Delta County jail. They would be released upon payment of fines and costs.

Conservation officers arrested them after a two mile chase by car. The pursuit ended in a farm field north of Ensign. Officers said that two men fled into the woods and were not caught last night.

The deer were in the trunk of the automobile.

'Old Man Of Sea' Lands In Florida On Refugee Boat

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI) — A grizzled Cuban fisherman, claiming to be the figure who inspired Ernest Hemingway's novel "The Old Man and the Sea," arrived here today with a group of refugees from Communist Cuba.

"Senor Ernesto was a good friend," said 92-year-old Anselmo Hernandez, a Havana cigar maker in one hand and a Panama hat clutched in the other. "We would drink good, black Cuban coffee together."

"And we would talk of fishing in the little town of Comijar," he said referring to the fishing village where the late author resided and wrote much of his Pulitzer Prize-winning novel.

Hernandez was among 44 refugees and 12 crewmen who came here on four boats this morning as the refugee shuttle got into full swing again after holdup of two full days. Havana radio announced this morning that a total of 11 refugee boats had left the embarkation port of Camarioca on the island's north coast in the past 24 hours.

The new arrivals brought more than 700 the number of Cubans who have fled the island since Communist Premier Fidel Castro declared his open door policy more than two weeks ago.

Hernandez, a fisherman all his life until he "retired" at the age of 85, said he met Hemingway 20 years ago and was a friend of the author until his death. He wore sneakers, blue pants and an old brown shirt.

"Yes, I'm happy to be here," he said. "You can't live with hunger and the terror imposed there by the Communists — especially at my age."

The Coast Guard said at least a half-dozen small boats were on the way across the squall-buffed Florida straits from the north coast of Cuba and that more might set out today.

More than 100 boats, several of them large enough to carry as many as 100 passengers each, were reported waiting at Camarioca, the embarkation port designated by Fidel Castro for the "open door" exodus of exiles from his regime.

In 1905, the White House Christmas party was so gay that Thomas Jefferson was moved to play lively tunes on his violin.

One of the major functions of the Red Cross in Delta County is procurement of blood for the Badger Blood program.

Last year, 687 pints of blood were used at St. Francis Hospital from the program and 234 more were replaced to other hospitals in Delta County residents. In addition, through the Badger Blood program, St. Francis was also furnished with valuable blood derivatives.

John Haines, hospital administrator, said:

"I wholeheartedly support the continuation of the Red Cross blood program and I sincerely hope that the citizens of Delta County will give exceptional support to the Delta United Services drive so that the Red Cross blood program and the other community service organizations can be continued and supported in the excellent contributions to the people of our area."

School Districts Told Of Federal Funds Available

School districts of Delta and Schoolcraft counties have basic allowances totaling $254,833 in federal aid to education funds if they sponsor programs to qualify for the assistance.

The account of the allowance for the school districts in the two counties was made public in a report from Hagle Quarnstrom, the superintendent of the Delta-Schoolcraft Intermediate School District.

The allowance figures are under Title I of Public Act 89-10 and the funds are designed to assist the school districts in financing expanded programs. The figures for each district are arrived at on the basis of the number of families in each district with $2,000 or less annual income, as revealed in the 1960 federal census.

Must Have Program

"The amounts allotted are to each school district only, and will be available to them upon the acceptance by the State Department, of approved programs meeting the outlined requirements," said Quarnstrom.

"Each school district must have its own program even though they are cooperating with other school districts and might even be paying the money to another district for the program," he explained.

One of the major requirements is that each district must establish a planning committee representative of the community, which is consulted in the preparation of the program. Applications for funds under Title I are being received soon by Quarnstrom and will be distributed to the districts as rapidly as possible, he reported.

District Allowances

"I am encouraging the districts to get their planning done and their programs set so they can get their applications on file," said Quarnstrom. "The deadline for applications for the use of the funds must be in before June 1—but we hope they will be turned in long before that date."

The report shows that school districts of Delta County have a total allowance under Title I of $168,944.

The Escanaba Area school district (Escanaba city and the Townships of Ford River, Cornell and Wells) have a reported 371 eligible children under the Act and an allowance of $87,539. The Area school board has authorized the establishing of a planning committee as the first step in achieving eligibility.

The Bark River-Harris district has 100 children eligible and $23,595 allowance; the Rock district 92 children and $21,708; Gladstone 59 and $13,921; and Baldwin 37 and $8,730.

Schoolcraft $85,888

Felch To Host Potato Champs

Although few people are aware of it since it's been only in the last few years that the potatoes have gained national prominence in marketing circles, the Russel Burbank has been produced in the Upper Peninsula since 1914. This fact and the changes in the potato business over the last half century will be highlighted at the Nov. 10 U.P. Potato Show in Felch.

This Dickinson County community was selected for the meeting since it was in this area where the long baking potato was first produced in 1914. During the afternoon, Upper Peninsula growers will visit the original farm, the old Morgan Lumber Co., to review old methods of potato production.

The group will also visit the Steinbrecher Brothers farm in the area to compare the present-day production and marketing techniques. Michigan State University specialists will be on hand to interpret recent developments and discuss future trends.

Approximately 250 are expected at the Nov. 10 evening banquet at Felch High School, where 4-H, FFA and producer trophies will be awarded and the U.P. Potato Queen will be announced. Candidates from Delta, Houghton, Dickinson, Iron, Marquette and Luce counties are expected to compete for the queen's crown. Harry Larsen of Quinnesec who has been active in historical circles, will be the banquet speaker.

C&H's Goodman Buys Wisconsin Veneer Factory

Goodman Division of C&H, Inc., has purchased the veneer mill of the Penokee Veneer Co. at Mellen, Wis., and will operate it as part of its wood industries complex.

Goodman Division, headed by Anthony C. Baudek, president and general manager, recently moved its general offices from Goodman, Wis., to Escanaba. The Division has sawmills at Ahmeek, Mich., and at Goodman, where it also has a veneer facility. It is one of the large owners of Upper Peninsula timberlands, mostly in the Copper Country, but with some holdings in Luce County and elsewhere.

M. C. Melver, president of Penokee Veneer and P. W. Robson, president of C&H, Inc., Evanston, Ill., announced that Penokee plans no change in personnel under its new ownership.

Was Kiel Woodware

The Penokee Co. has been under the ownership and management of Marion C. Melver since 1939. It was owned before that from about 1906 by Kiel, Wis., persons and operated under the name of Kiel Woodware Co.

After the Kiel owners closed the plant in 1938 it was reactivated for a short time under the name Mellen Veneer Co. Penokee started operations in August of 1939 with 30 men and increased the number to 130 by October of that year. In World War II employment reached 350 and at the present time the firm has 125 employees.

In August, 1942 the plant was destroyed by fire and the company rebuilt, constructing one of the most modern veneer plants in the Midwest.

Another fire destroyed the mill portion of the plant in 1949 and it was rebuilt on the same foundation.

Penokee has been shut down for only one short period in 25 years of operations and during World War II it operated around the clock and is currently operating two shifts.

Goodman Division bought the veneer mill facilities of Penokee, not the company timberlands or other assets of the 60-year-old establishment.

Sheriff Probes Jail Conduct

MARSHALL (UPD) — Calhoun County Sheriff Joseph Liebheer continued his investigation today in what he termed was a breach of security at the county jail which resulted in the dismissal of one deputy, suspension of another and the resignation of a third officer.

Liebheer said Deputy Harold James resigned, that he had fired Deputy Douglas Meyers and a third officer, Richard Markham, had been suspended pending outcome of the probe.

Among the allegations made by the sheriff, who took office Aug. 31 were:

- That there was a switch in duties from the radio dispatcher with a security guard.
- That food above the regular prison menu was found and that cooking had been done by officers for the women inmates during the night.
- Male visitors were permitted to visit their wives who also were prisoners.
- Deputies entered the women's detention block without a matron present.
- He said jars of pickles and peppers, pie and omelets and candy were found in the women's quarters.
- Liebheer said the investigation started when a matron caught a woman prisoner talking to her husband through the bars and when told she wasn't supposed to, replied: "That's nothing," and proceeded to tell of alleged violations.

UPCAP Urging Airport Work

Modernization of the Escanaba Airport is imperative if area economic expansion is to continue at its present healthy rate, according to UPCAP (Upper Peninsula Committee for Area Progress).

The question of modernization of the facility was brought to a head with the announcement by North Central Airlines that it will be putting DC-9 jet aircraft into service in 1967. The Escanaba Airport lacks both an adequate runway to handle the jets and terminal facilities to handle the anticipated increase in traffic the jets would bring.

North Central Airlines has said that the present terminal would not lend itself to the expansion of their office for the future, and that they would pay a higher rate per square foot if more and better space were available. In the present facility baggage is claimed outside because of lack of space, and restrooms are located separate from the main building.

The present runway is some 1,500 feet too short to accommodate the North Central jets. The jets, which have a 90 passenger capacity, require a 3,500 foot runway, with 25 feet added for each 100 feet about sea level, plus a Civil Aeronautics Board safety factor of 15 per cent for wet conditions. The Escanaba Airport, which is 612 feet above sea level, has a 5,000 foot runway.

"The need for expansion is especially clear when considering industrial use of air transportation," said David O. Farand, UPCAP industrial development specialist. "North Central reports increases in air freight passing through the Escanaba Airport of almost 18 times in 1953-1964. Industry uses the airlines for fast transportation of shipments and parts, and for the use of company executives. Several local industries have private planes to take care of their executive business travel."

A special Airport Study Commission, headed by John Anthony, president of Anthony & Company of Escanaba, has proposed that the City of Escanaba transfer ownership of the airport to Delta County so that the cost of operation may be spread over the entire area served. The committee also proposed a plan of financing improvements which would include joint participation by federal, state and county governments. A two mill tax levy for one year to obtain the county's portion will be before Delta County voters in a special election Dec. 6.

Want A Toll Free Mackinac Bridge?

Here's Real Big Mac Prospect

Don't look for any federal action taking over the Mackinac Bridge and making it toll free before 1971 at the very earliest.

This was the warning of U.S. Senator Philip A. Hart (D-Mackinac Island) to the Upper Peninsula conference of Democrats in Escanaba last Saturday. Bridge tolls were the liveliest topic of discussion at a questions period with the party's brass serving as a panel after a luncheon at the Sherman Hotel.

State Rep. Einar Erlandsen (D-Escanaba) told the group that $100 million in bridge bonds must be paid off before the bridge can be toll free. A $5 addition to the weight tax (auto licensing) and increase in the gasoline tax have been proposed to refinance the bridge, said Erlandsen but $600 million in highway construction bonds must be paid off "and when we talk of raising the gas tax for the bridge, we're talking of cutting highway construction."

Step At A Time

"We are working toward getting the bridge refinanced and were able to get it through the House (of the Michigan Legislature) 103 votes to 0." But it bogged down in a Senate committee. Refinancing by putting the state's full faith and credit behind the bonds could cut interest charges $25 million "but it is not going to be done immediately," said Erlandsen. "The bond indenture is so tight we can't move; we had to give our right arm to get the bridge financed."

"I'm hoping to take one step at a time and first to get the bridge refinanced. (This would cut the interest charges and would permit lowering of tolls, now $3.75 per car one way.) The Mackinac Bridge Authority becomes a part of the Highway Commission on Jan. 1. "We (the Legislators) expect the Highway Department to ask for a cent and half increase in the gas tax," said Erlandsen.

No Equal Protection

Congressman Raymond Clevenger (D-Sault Ste. Marie) said "my platform calls for end of the tolls on the bridge. I appreciate the problem that the state has, but we should all work for a free bridge. It makes no sense to pay tolls on an interstate highway at Mackinac and not at Detroit."

"Under the equal protection of the law clause I maintain that we are not equal when we have to pay here and not at Detroit. The state has built 1100 bridges since the Mackinac Bridge and they are all free."

"The easy way to finance the bridge would be for the federal government to take over 90 per cent of the cost and the state 10 per cent, but I am having a bill prepared that will propose that the federal and state governments pay 50-50, on condition that the bridge be toll-free."

Double Program

Neil Staebler, national Democratic committeeman from Michigan, who presided as moderator, said "Einar has told of the program for the state taking over the bonds so the interest rate can be cut and the bridge tolls can be reduced—maybe one-third. But there still must be tolls."

"It is still important to have Congressman Clevenger work toward a free bridge."

Rep. Russell Hellman (D-Houghton) said "This is not 'our' bridge nor a move to reduce 'our' tolls. This bridge connects the Upper Peninsula and the Lower Peninsula. Seventy-five percent of the Michigan legislators live closer to the bridge than I do. It is the responsibility of all the people of Michigan."

Not Until 1971

"It is a hard political fact of life," said U. S. Senator Philip A. Hart that the federal government is not going to buy the bonds and bail the bridge out until the Interstate Highway System is completed.

"We can feel differently about the equity, but there are $4 or $5 billion in such bridges around the country and until the present gas and auto accessories taxes buy those 42,000 miles of highway finished, Congress is not going to bite into that trust fund."

Fall Is Time To Test Soils

J. L. Heirman, Delta County Extension Agent, says knowing the qualities of the soil you have to work with in making crop plans can mean wiser use of fertilizer. Many farmers overfertilize fields because they do not use soil tests.

More, however, need to use additional fertilizer to get maximum production.

Fall is an ideal time to take soil samples and get testing done, Heirman notes.

A new Bulletin (E-498) published by the Cooperative Extension Service gives complete information on how to take soil samples and prepare them for testing. It is available without charge from the Delta County Extension Office, County Building, Escanaba.

Success Has Many Fathers

From Washington comes the news of approval of a $100 million plan for expanding Ohio's system of recreational parks. This action reflects one of the encouraging tides running under the surface, that of providing more public resort and vacation areas in the populous East and Midwest states.

Kentucky is a prime example of what can be done in this direction. Much of its mountainous topography is not suited to rich agricultural crops. Coal mining, a former mainstay, is in a decline. So Kentucky has turned its Tourist and Travel Department personnel loose to stimulate a new source of income and jobs.

Forging ahead as a pacemaker, the state acquires land for public parks and erects lodges, luxurious by vacation cabin standards, to attract tourists. Then they encourage private enterprise to share in a new business, motels and restaurants on the perimeters of the parks, which, until the state took the initiative, were just idle stretches of forests and rocks.

A state operating a hotel and resort business seems incongruous, but a good many states east of the Mississippi now are experimenting with the role of woody mine hosts.

The trend of setting aside land in its natural state for use of the general public continues, needful or not. One of the most ambitious projects now building is The Land Between the Lakes National Recreational Area being developed by TVA on 170,000 acres of virtually virgin territory in Kentucky and Tennessee between Barkley and Kentucky Lakes. This lodge, camp, trailer, camping complex is within a day's driving for 70 million Americans.

With such planning by the states, great pools of wilderness land will be held as a heritage for future generations.

Dr. Clare Gunn, recreational specialist of Michigan State University, has described the changing patterns of recreational travel in the Midwest. A map in his doctoral thesis puts the situation into sharp focus.

It shows the Upper Peninsula of Michigan the same distance as the Kentucky highlands from the rich and big-spending Detroit area of Michigan. Detroiters, then, have their choice of running down to Kentucky with its vast new recreational complexes and state government promotion of play, or up to the Upper Peninsula, which is not nearly so wide-awake to the profit potential of the resort business and whose state government has made no such commitment to its development as has Kentucky's.

A change is coming in the upper Great Lake States, which have lagged so far behind other areas in recreational development. The Pictured Rocks and Apostle Islands national lakeshore parks will help put the area on the national recreation map and stimulate pleasure travel that will benefit the whole region.

And under the new $660 million Economic Development Act there is authority for the creation of regional development authorities and the funds to finance them. When Neil Staebler, Michigan national Democratic committeeman, was in Escanaba for the U.P. Democratic conference Oct. 16 he cited that the Upper Peninsula is moving economically and ascribed the movement to the Democratic national administration's program of economic development.

This is a vast oversimplification of a complex economic change. The federal and state governments have been impressively successful in their training of the unemployed and underemployed in new and wanted job skills. They have been less successful in attacking the heartstock of poverty and unemployment by upgrading basic education but they have at least made a valiant start.

The upswing of the economy in the U.P. is chiefly resting on mineral industry. The Federal Government can put a big feather in its hat for its aid to Copper Range Co. to finance its subsidiary, White Pine Copper Co. in the development of the White Pine mine, mill and smelter 10 years ago. All the $67 million loan has been repaid and White Pine is now spending $100 million of private capital in an expansion greater than the original construction of the mine.

But the gains in copper mining by Calumet & Hecla have not been government inspired nor has the huge growth of iron mining, beneficiation and pelletizing on the Marquette Range. There Cleveland Cliffs Iron Co. and its partners have been the moving force.

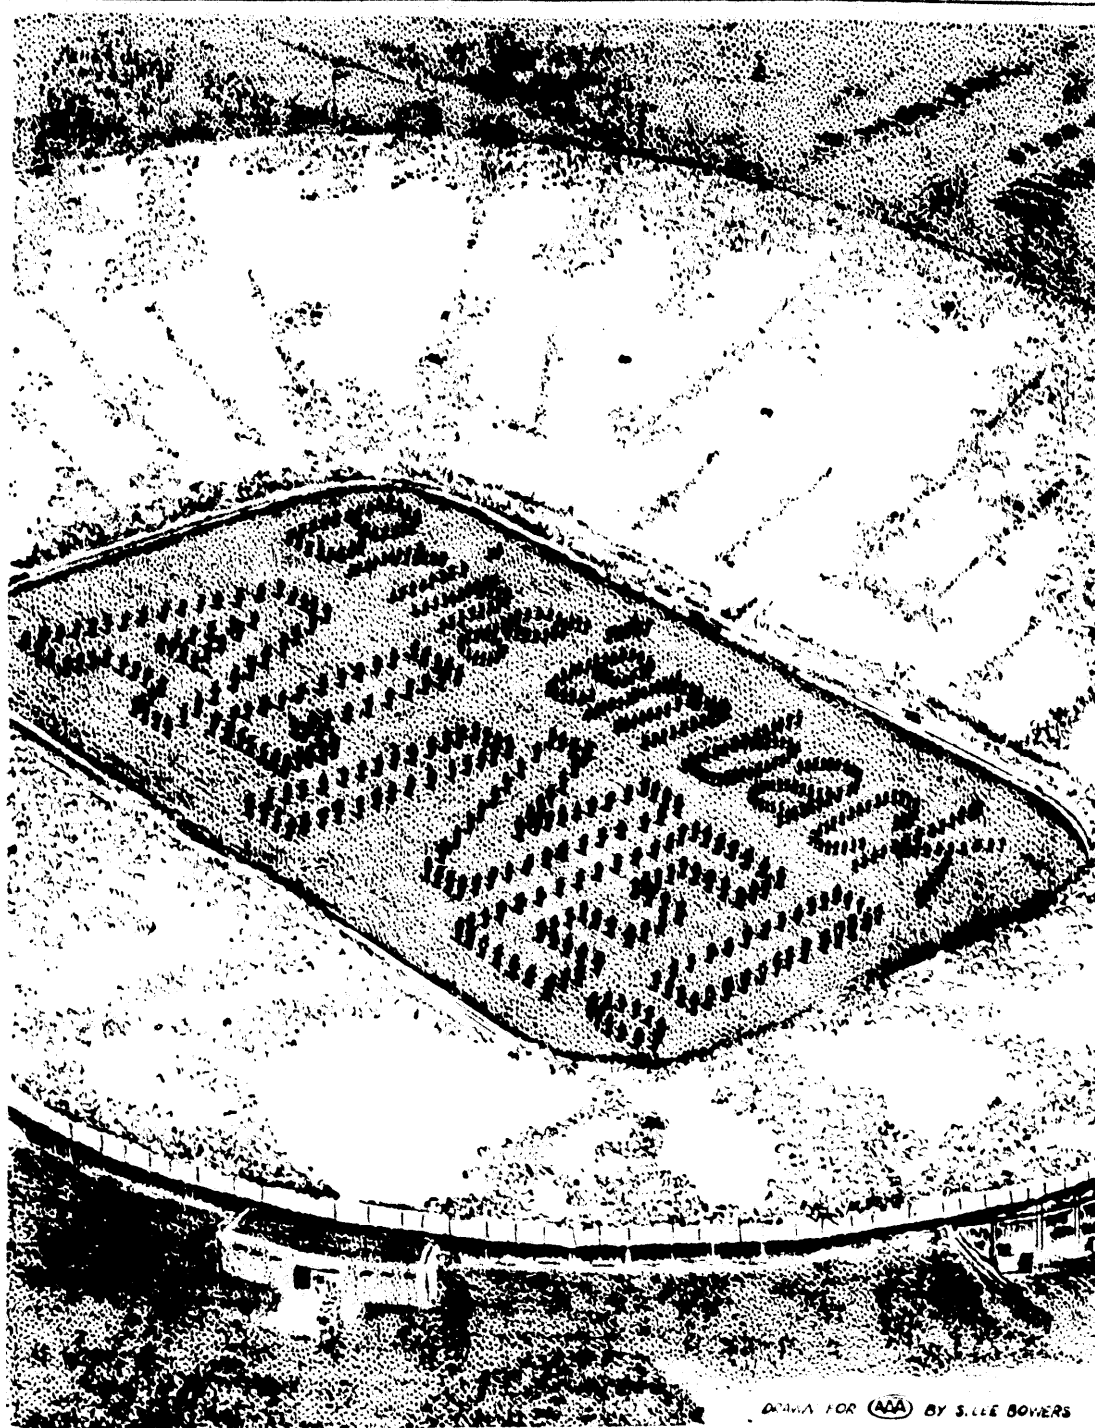

Manufacturing has moved ahead in the U.P. and government has not been importantly identified with this growth, except as a customer. In agriculture the shrinkage continues and government is shortening up the staff that has given it leadership for many years. Government has withdrawn its Weather Bureau in Escanaba after a century of service. Government has not moved strongly in the U.P. in recreation development on either state or federal levels.

As a result Detroit has gone to Kentucky—and to Canada and elsewhere. In a time of unprecedented growth of recreational travel, the Upper Peninsula, because its only modern highway (I-75) leads out of it (to Canada) and not into it, has suffered an actual decline in traffic.

Neil Staebler says that the historic trouble of the Upper Peninsula has been that money for investment flowed out of it and not into it. This is true. The U.P., almost exclusively devoted to extractive enterprise in its first century of industry, sent its earnings to Chicago, Cleveland and Boston, instead of reinvesting them in new U.P. ventures.

Now, says Staebler, this process will be reversed. Money will be pumped into the U.P. He is speaking of government money, of course, and it will not be in the huge amounts which private industry has been investing here. (The War on Poverty effort is a small thing compared with our continuing expenditures for welfare.)

It should be welcomed as an attack on some real problems of the area and the government's regional development efforts in highway construction and such public works will give the U.P. northern Wisconsin and Minnesota their first taste of federal spending on a big scale. The West and the South are familiar with this practice and with its benefits and now we're to have some because we're "Little Appalachia."

Career Of Ambushes

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — "The Viet Cong are very patient," said the captain wryly outside Tay Ninh near the Cambodian border.

"They occupy a lot of this area. So we have to go out every morning to clear the road. For some reason we go out every morning the same time — at 10 o'clock. I've told headquarters that's pretty stupid. It makes us sitting ducks."

"But the next day the order is the same — 10 o'clock."

"But the Viet Cong are smart. They don't hit us every day. We may go out every morning for a week or two weeks and everything is quiet."

"So the men relax a little. Then the Viet Cong hit. They wait until we make some little mistake."

Sometimes a war takes on the characteristics of its commanding general.

A former colonel in Ho's guerrilla armies, sitting over a cup of tea, told me about a young Viet Minh officer, named Tran Nam Trung.

The two had known each other something over a decade ago when they both commanded Viet Minh regiments in the war against the French.

Said the colonel, "Ambushes were Trung's military specialty. He was very brave in this kind of fighting and always led his own ambushes. He especially liked to ambush armored cars and tanks. He seemed to have a sort of hate for these vehicles."

Today, Tran Nam Trung is a lieutenant general and commander-in-chief of the Viet Cong armies in South Vietnam. So his ambush concepts are of particular interest.

The colonel continued, "Trung would spend hours working out new ambush quirks. He invented a number of new techniques, showed a great deal of imagination in devising better ambushes. He was really good at this; it won him considerable acclaim. Then when a job came up, he'd plan his own ambush in the greatest of detail."

But the gains in copper mining by Calumet & Hecla have not been government inspired nor has the huge growth of iron mining, beneficiation and pelletizing on the Marquette Range. There Cleveland Cliffs Iron Co. and its partners have been the moving force.

Manufacturing has moved ahead in the U.P. and government has not been importantly identified with this growth, except as a customer. ## The Doctor Says:

Relief Of Backache

By Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt

(Second of two related articles.) Backache can often be prevented by avoiding the various causes mentioned in a previous column. The most important precaution is to lift heavy objects with your leg muscles, not with your back muscles.

A woman should not try to lift more than 25 pounds and a man should not try to lift more than half his weight. Avoid sudden twisting movements of your back. If you have a sedentary job you should get up and stretch at least once every hour. Sleep on a hard mattress supported by firm bedposts. If your bed sags in the middle, use a bed board between your mattress and the springs. You might even profit by sleeping with the mattress on the floor.

Some persons have found that switching from an overstuffed chair to a hard chair without a cushion has cleared up a backache of many years' duration.

Avoid excessive weight. A fat abdomen will increase the strain on your vertebral column. Don't sit or sleep in a draft. Bending over a low sink, washtub, ironing board or oven will tire your back. If you cannot adjust their height to your needs, try doing some of these household tasks sitting on an adjustable stool.

Exercises to strengthen your back muscles are recommended. You might start by lying on your back with your hands clasped behind your neck and raise both legs without bending your knees (this is good for your abdominal muscles, too). Instead of bringing your legs straight down, spread them wide apart on the way down. Lie face down and again raise your legs above your hips. Finally, lie on your back and go through the motions of riding a bicycle.

If you already have a backache you may need to wear a corset—the old-fashioned kind with stays—or a brace temporarily. Some women with backache have been cured by switching from high heels to oxfords or loafers.

For an acute backache, rest and heat are often all that is needed. But if this does not suffice, traction and muscle relaxing drugs can be used. A chronic backache may require an operation. The simplest of these, an office procedure, is the injection of chymopapain into the intervertebral disk, if a ruptured disk is the cause of the trouble.

In some victims the disk must be removed and in a few an operation to fuse the vertebrae into a straight but inflexible rod may be necessary. The last two operations are last—ditch procedures and should not be necessary if you take good care of your back.

Muskegon Man Paints In Jail

MANISTEE (UPI) — When Walter Wilson goes into a jail cell his talent comes out.

Wilson, 38, of Muskegon first got interested in painting in the Manistee County Jail in 1951.

Now he's back in the county jail and is painting again. Those who have watched him paint or have seen the finished product say he is loaded with talent.

While Wilson was in jail here the first time, the Manistee County Library staff saw his water colors and sketches and asked him to paint a nativity scene for the library windows.

Wilson didn't know how to mix paints so two librarians showed him how and he did the painting, which caused widespread and favorable comment.

At the time he also painted a picture of State Police Cpl. David Feldkamp. The sheriff's office gave the painting to the state policeman when he returned.

Wilson was a dropout and didn't go far enough in Hart High School to have studied art. He has been using a discarded painting kit, painting over numbered paintings so he can do original work and using premixed paints that come with a set.

Wilson, part Ottawa and part Seneca Indian, is a jack of several trades. He knows welding, saw filing and sign painting. He likes to paint scenes with Indian figures in them.

Wilson frequently visits his grandmother, Mary Bailey of Bear Lake, who is an Ottawa Indian and 109 years old.

His ambition is to learn to mix paints and use oils. Richard Arendt, a Manistee High School art teacher, is helping along on that end and is providing Wilson with oil paints and other equipment plus a beginner's book on art.

The county also will help. Wilson is being held on a charge of "borrowing" an automobile without intending to steal it. He has been made a trustee so he can paint in the jail hallway where the light is good.

Ann Landers

Honeymoon Baby Starts Gossip

Dear Ann Landers: Why don't year-old girl and my parents people keep their mouths shut when they don't know what they are talking about? My niece was married last year. Lorraine had a beautiful white wedding. If ever a girl deserved to wear white she did. Lorraine had such a saintly quality about her that if anyone said "hell" in her presence they felt ashamed.

Lorraine became pregnant on her honeymoon. The baby was born three days short of nine months. The tongues wagged all over town and everyone was busy counting. The word got around that the baby was "a little early." One woman who didn't realize I was sitting behind her at a ladies' aid meeting whispered to the person next to her, "Lorraine of ALL people. It just goes to show you can never tell about anybody."

Will you please explain to the ignorant busybodies that a baby can be born any time in the ninth month? Thank you — MAD AUNT

Dear Aunt: Of course, babies can be born anytime in the ninth month, but busybodies don't want an explanation. They'd rather talk. Now is a good time to remember that the Lord gave us two ears so all the rubbish we hear can go in one and out the other.

Dear Ann Landers: I am bookkeeper and cashier in an office which employs 20 people. I am responsible for the petty cash. Usually there's about $35 in the petty cash drawer. In the last six months every time I've checked the drawer it has been short. Certain people have fallen into the habit of borrowing anywhere from 25c to $5. The borrowers used to put in IOUs, but they don't bother anymore.

Every week I have to go around and ask who is in hook to the drawer. At the moment there's an $11 shortage which I can't account for.

Two people are on vacation and one is out sick.

If you have a solution I'd like to hear it — J

Dear J: A petty cash drawer, into which anyone may dip when he has the shorts, is an engraved invitation to steal.

Such a set-up is a poor one for both the employees and the company. Can't all "thieves" and "anarchists" in the future only one person will have access to the drawer — YOU! Then keep the cash locked up and relax.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 15-year-old girl and my parents won't let me grow up. THEIR parents let them grow up. Why won't they do as much for me?

I am now a freshman in high school. My mother has arranged with my dad to leave the car in the morning and drive to work with a neighbor so SHE can chauffeur me to and from school. Ann, I don't want to be chauffeured to and from school. It's only 10 minutes by bus and on a nice day I can walk. But no, she insists it is her duty.

I have begged for an alarm clock of my own for two years but my mother says "No. I will get you up." She picks out the clothes she wants me to wear every day. If I select my own she is hurt.

Can you get to the nitty gritty of this and give me some help? — I am — LIKE SUFFOCATING

Dear Like: Your signature is a dead lake. The word suffocating is a synonym for being smothered — and you are. Your mother is not giving you room to breathe and grow.

A 15-year-old girl should be allowed to get to school and back on her own. She should be permitted to select her own clothes. And finally, she should be able to get out of bed in the morning without help.

If you think it will do some good, show this column to your mother. If you DON'T think it will help, show it to her anyway. You may be agreeably surprised.

Excessive drinking is wrecking your health or destroying someone you love, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Help For The Alcoholic," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Mothers Feed Puppies In New Book Of Rhymes

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
NEW YORK (UPI)—Mothers are for feeding the puppy when a child forgets, for listening to prayers, for knowing the distance to the moon, for love.

And fathers? They're for bringing home surprises, for helping fly kites, for holding children on their laps, for love. The sweet and sentimental definitions aren't from a child psychiatrist, a psychologist or anyone expert who's studied children. Rather, they are from a mother of five in Cobden, Ill.—Shirley Bauer.

Epp's Ad
Mrs. Bauer was one of 15,000 aspiring writers of verse for children who responded to Samuel Epp's ad in Writer's Magazine. Epp, 61, and retired, said in the ad that he was looking for new tales in verse for children.

Mrs. Kennedy Rents Retreat

PEAPACK, N.J. (UPI)—Mrs. John F. Kennedy has leased a small farm house, described as a "badly made-over barn" in central New Jersey's fox country.

The house has four bedrooms and a small cottage nearby that could serve as guest quarters. Mrs. Kennedy's aide, Pamela Turnure, said the former first lady plans to spend fall and winter weekends in the retreat.

IOOF To Return To Grand Rapids

The two organizations concluded their 1965 convention here Wednesday.

the permanence of seasons, that talk about love among parents and children, about the comfort of prayer, and the satisfactions of parades, pups and shapes."

For one thing, Epp's book doesn't contain any zooms or booms such as you hear from planes breaking the sound barrier or from guns.

"We have stories about bubbles and things that float and about things that go plink," he said.

The father of two nursery school teachers, Epp was surprised at the response to his call for original children's stories in verse.

"It took eight months reading stories," he said. "Eighty per cent of the writers were women, but surprisingly to me only six wrote the kinds of happy tales I wanted."

Private Elf
Asked what the 51 selections from the six writers had that the thousands of rejections didn't Epp answered:

"The rejected ones were either bad or horrid. What was was rhymes personifying personalities so attractive, so lovable, so outstanding as to commit me to them, willy-nilly."

One of the characters is a private elf who hides behind the bookcase. "He always calls me 'other self' and I call him the same," according to the rhyme.

Another tale tells about a pussy cat's dream. It ends with:

"But the funniest scene in the pussy cat's dream was the life guard candy dish—with an ice cream cone for a megaphone shouting, cats beware of the fish."

Lifting Delayed On Sunken Liner

DETROIT (UPI)—Plans to salvage the sunken Italian liner Andrea Doria have hit a snag.

Capt. Don Henry, the Detroit-born salvage expert who startled the marine world when he announced plans to raise the ship from its grave in the Atlantic Ocean off Nantucket Island, said operations have been postponed until April.

He said weather caused the postponement. He had planned to start salvage operations next month.

Henry has yet to receive approval from the Securities & Exchange Commission for sale of stock in his salvage venture.

Henry now operates out of Toronto. He said he would take on several tow jobs and a major salvage operation while waiting for good April weather in the Atlantic and the Doria job.

The Doria went down nine days ago after colliding with the Swedish liner Stockholm.

British Polar Experts Killed

LONDON (UPI)—Three young British polar experts died in the Antarctic when their snow tractor plunged into an icy crevasse, reports from the South Pole said Wednesday. British Antarctic survey director Sir Vivian Fuchs said that survivor, John Ross, journeyed for several days with a dog team to pass on word of the accident. The date and details of the tragedy were not immediately available.

Democrats Map Farm Program For Legislature

LANSING (UPI) — With the ink hardly dry on 1965 farm legislation, the Agriculture Committee of the Democratic State Central Committee Wednesday recommended an eight-point program for the 1966 legislature.

The top item on the list released by Committee Chairman Joe Penzien was elimination of all farm personal property taxes and "initiation of a total fiscal reform program, including an income tax and lower property taxes."

Income Tax Favored

The legislature failed to come to grips with fiscal reform this year, but House Agriculture Committee Chairman Rep. Floyd J. Mattheussen, D-Benton Harbor, said farmers would support an income tax if the personal property taxes were removed.

"Our committee covered 2,500 miles in two weeks conducting public hearings on this last month," Mattheussen said. "And we found they are gross injustices."

"Farmers are paying between eight per cent and 50 per cent of their income on such taxes, and we think they should be removed as part of a true fiscal reform program."

The bipartisan tax package that failed to come up for debate in the fall session did not include such provisions.

Other key points in the farm program Penzien described as "the most far-reaching farm legislation ever proposed in Michigan's history" include:

- Development of an agricultural export program through the state Department of Agriculture (MSDA).
- Establishment of a mid-Michigan agricultural exposition.

Beautification Included

—Amend of the 1965 Commodities Marketing Enabling Act so producers instead of processors will determine the handling of surpluses.

—"Careful consideration of the budget requirements" of the Cooperative Extension Service of Michigan State University "to make sure Michigan's agricultural needs are being adequately served."

—Providing more personnel, equipment and supplies for the MSDA's laboratory division to carry out additional responsibilities given to it by 1965 legislation.

—Establishment of an orchard and vineyard insect and disease control program.

—Initiation of a "rural Michigan beautification program" by eliminating dead elm trees and "destroying ramshackle farm buildings."

Mattheussen and Senate Agriculture Committee Chairman Sen. Roger Johnson, D-Marshall, said bills were either now in the works or soon would be to get the program to the floor for debate.

Mattheussen also said he would back a "cherry pie bill" to regulate the number of cherries used in commercial pies.

Japan To Send Cherry Trees

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Japanese Ambassador Ryuji Takeuchi informed the White House today that 700 Japanese cherry trees will arrive in Washington early next month for planting on the grounds of the Washington Monument.

Takeuchi said the trees would be the first installment in a planned gift of 3,800 trees from the Japanese people. The remainder of the trees will be delivered and planted as they become available, the ambassador said.

The gift marks the second presentation of cherry trees to the United States. Japan presented 3,000 trees to the nation's capital in 1912 to be planted around the Tidal Basin near the Jefferson Memorial, inspiring the city's annual cherry blossom festival each April.

Grads Increase

HOUGHTON—Graduate student enrollment this year at Michigan Tech has increased 28 per cent over last year. There are now 134 candidates for advanced degrees compared to 104 last year and 84 the year before that.

Phony Firms Bilk Public

Organized crime has spread into the merchandising field, and crime syndicate money is being used to set up merchandising swindles in many parts of the country. The swindles rely on heavy credit purchases over a short period after which the business evaporates. Merchandise obtained on credit is then resold.

"These swindles are the result of hoodlums trading on the good name of American businessmen," said Henry B. Montague, chief postal inspector.

Montague noted that in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1965, a total of 136 investigations were begun by the Postal Inspection Service of suspected merchandise swindles. In the previous year, 145 such investigations were undertaken.

A hoodlum connected with the crime syndicate is usually the front man for the operation, to protect the syndicate's investment.

The unwary buyer does not even get junky products for his dollars. He gets nothing. The price advertised are much lower, however. Such as 17-jewel watches for $3.

After classified advertisements had appeared in 13 newspapers throughout the country, the mailman delivered merchandise orders containing checks and money orders at a $1000-a-day clip to Western Distributors, in Seattle, Wash.

These were for portable typewriters, $25; deluxe portable electric sewing machines, $23; electric frying pans, $5; electric hair dryers, $4 and other irresistible bargains.

"When merchandise is advertised at unrealistically low prices, the buyer should think twice," warns Montague. "There are many legitimate businessmen conducting mail order operations, but they do not offer 17-jewel watches for $3."

The Western Distributors fled Seattle for Los Angeles and then skipped out hoping to elude the law. Three men were arrested, convicted, and sentenced to prison terms — but the customers of their phony business never recovered their money.

A resident of Massachusetts is known as a "Bay Stater."

Authorities Get Alleged Slayer

BENTON HARBOR (UPI)—Berrien County authorities left Wednesday for Whitley City, Ky., to bring back a 49-year-old ex-convict wanted on murder charges here.

William Schubert, De Kalb, Ill., waived extradition Wednesday after he had originally announced he would fight being sent back to Michigan. He is accused of the kidnap-slaying Oct. 13 of Charles Bojack, 33, Benton Harbor, the husband of one of Schubert's former wives.

Schubert was arrested by police in Whitley City where he allegedly went to kill his first wife, Irene Sears, and his stepdaughter, Wilma Richardson, 21.

Auto Thefts Up

NEW YORK (UPI)—The National Automobile Theft Bureau said Tuesday auto thefts in the United States have increased at a frightening rate.

Bureau President Michael J. Murphy said an estimated 43,865 cars were stolen last month, an increase of 12.7 per cent over September 1964.

Phouma Warns Reds Will Fight To Last Man

ANN ARBOR (UPI) — Prince Souvanna Phouma, prime minister of Laos, said Wednesday he feels China now realizes the United States is not a "Paper Tiger" but said the Chinese will, despite this, fight in Viet Nam "to the last Vietnamese."

The Prince spoke here Wednesday to about 200 University of Michigan students in the only address he has scheduled during his tour of the United States.

In a prepared statement which he read in French, the prince said, "We cannot ignore the fact that a well-known ideology is being spread over all the world through wars, revolutions and social unrest."

"For the fanatics involved, there exist no ethics, no international code of behavior, no rights, no frontiers."

He said, "They only want to instigate revolutions wherever they can impose what they choose to call the dictates of the people and announce the advent of a social paradise where classes and state would be abolished."

The prime minister said his nation has a very real desire for neutrality in the world conflict. "Three-million people in my country want it," he said.

The prince came here from Washington, D.C., Wednesday. He is scheduled to tour the U.M. campus today and then depart for Chicago and Paris.

CAB Vetoes Boost In Airline Fares

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) Wednesday refused to let North Central Airlines put fare increases into effect in 11 markets.

The CAB did give North Central permission to decrease fares in six other markets and establish new fares in an additional six markets which are lower than existing local tariffs.

North Central had sought to boost fares by 50 cents and $1 on flights from 11 cities to either Battle Creek or Kalamazoo, Mich. The boost actually would have been achieved by establishing identical fares from the 11 cities to either of the Michigan points. They are only 17 miles apart and passengers frequently use either airport.

But the CAB, in a 3-2 decision, said North Central failed to submit economic justification for the higher fares. It noted that the airline's rate of return on investment for the 12 months ending June 30 was 10.65 per cent — achieving the rate the CAB has declared to be a fair profit level.

Humans, Not Wildlife, Are Big Hunt Problem

By LEE SMITHS
The seventh annual dinner gathering of Ducks Unlimited of Michigan was told by Ben Anderson, Midwest regional manager for DU, that as a career conservationist he estimated that 90 per cent of the funds and manpower allotted to fish and game management actually was spent on human management. More than 80 per cent of the contributions from American sportsmen is devoted to the restoration and maintenance of duck nesting grounds in the northwest prairies.

In general, the No. 1 concern of wildlife management is not fish and game. It's people. Human population pressure. Demand for outdoor recreation rapidly increasing along with more and more pollution, drainage, expressways, suburban, posted farms.

It is, therefore, refreshing to be reminded of some of the conservation gains. At the Ducks Unlimited dinner, Judge Louis D. McGregor, former president of Michigan United Conservation Clubs, now president of the National Wildlife Federation, was strongly optimistic. He gave high praise to DU, and reported a nation-wide conservation fervor among organized sportsmen and definite gains in management practices.

There is encouraging fish news in Michigan. A bonus trout season, Sept. 12 to the end of November, scheduled for 1966, was opened this fall in seven major streams to harvest brown and rainbows that spend most of their adult lives in the Great Lakes. Rainbows running into streams from the lakes come to be known as steelheads. They are spring spawners, and are in fighting trim in the fall. Meanwhile, hatchery output will be boosted to provide more than 13,000,000 infant trout and salmon for planting in 1966 and '67.

Suitable lakes in all parts of Michigan are annually stocked with trout and presently there will be five species in state waters — native brooks, browns, rainbows, splake and Coho salmon. The new program is explained by Wayne H. Tody, in charge of fish species management for the Conservation Department.

"Beginning next year," says Dr. Tody, "instead of releasing fish of legal size on a put-and-take basis infant fish will be turned loose, to grow up under natural conditions. There has been a 40 per cent take of mature fish released in lakes and streams. The new system will be less expensive, make heavier plantings possible and, it is expected, will give better than a pound-for-pound return. That is, the fish that grow up in the wild, and that are finally caught should at least equal in weight the small fish that are planted."

"The splake, hybrid brook-and-lake-trout, is actually an improved type of brook trout. It grows faster than either brook or lake trout, it put up a more spectacular fight than either species and the current hatchery production of 100,000 splake a year is being stepped up to 1,000,000."

Rainbow and Coho salmon will be released as yearlings, so that they will be ready to adopt the cycle of migration between the streams where they're released and the Great Lakes. Heavy releases can be made of all five species in streams that lack spawning facilities but have an abundant food supply.

Now what about hunting prospects for the general public?
What about sportsmen who find miles and miles of "No Hunting" signs along the roads of southern Michigan?

Legislation is on its way through congress — with very little opposition — to reward farmers for opening their lands to hunters, fishermen, campers and hikers. The Soil Bank Act would be amended so that land, not being used for crops, would be managed for game. Meanwhile, farm ponds are being dug, with federal funds, with the expectation that they will be habitat for wildfowl and fish.

When farmers discover how easy it is to let nature raise paying crops of pheasant, quail, cottontails, with very little help in the way of food and cover plantings, the hunter will be happy to pay reasonable fees to do the harvesting.

Federal regulation may assert itself, in which case the State of Michigan will have to be on guard. The states have raised an effective protest against the attempt to give Washington control over fish and game on all federal lands, including vast areas of national forests in Michigan.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Folks: So many of you all write to me wanting to know the proper way to wash Fiberglas that I called the manufacturers, and had a long talk with them.

Gail Palmer has set down, in simple words, the following complete instruction for you to follow to prolong the life of your beautiful materials. This includes curtains or draperies you might purchase made of Fiberglas. The new Fiberglas Beta bedspreads are a different matter. These can be machine washed. Be sure to follow the directions in the package.

"Never wash any of your personal articles with Fiberglas fabrics."

"Wash your Fiberglas draperies as you would a fine wool sweater. Wash them in a tub with a mild or cold water soap. Do not wash along with other fabrics."

"Detergents of any type must NEVER be used. Chemical agents found in detergents sometimes harm the finish on a Fiberglas fabric. Always use a pure soap."

"If you do not wish to handle your draperies yourself, contact a reputable commercial laundry in your vicinity, and request that they WET wash them for you."

"If you have cause to bleach your draperies, use a solution of Sodium Perborate from your druggist. When using Sodium Perborate, dissolve four ounces in a tub full of water."

"Fiberglas should be installed so that it clears the floor, ceiling, and any projection such as window sill, in order to avoid constant friction."

"When sewing Fiberglas curtains and draperies, experiment first with a piece of the material that you will be working with. Use the longest, loosest stitch applicable to your material. Experience has indicated that this will vary from eight to ten stitches per inch. Fewer stitches are used for heavier fabrics, more for sheer and open weaves."

"We recommend a fine-quality mercerized cotton thread and a sharp needle."

"The selvage on Fiberglas fabrics will not shrink, so it is unnecessary to remove it. When sewing multiple widths, to make a "French" seam:

"After the widths have been stitched together, both selvages may be turned to one side (no need to turn them under) and top stitched, thus making a false French seam. Side seams can be made using the selvage."

"Fiberglas will not absorb dye, just as it will not absorb soil. You may tint Fiberglas, although the tinting will not be permanent. Your tint will wash out with the first laundering, therefore, many homemakers choose to retint with each washing."

The pigment dyes applied to the fabric when you purchase it are heat set in the manufacturing process for permanence and also resistance to fading."

And, NEVER put Fiberglas draperies or curtains in your washing machine nor in a dryer that tumbles.

Dear Heloise: Have you ever taken a pin-cushion apart and found dozens of needles lost in there?

To solve this problem, I put my needles on the pin cushion crosswise instead of straight in. I never lose a needle.

The pins are inserted in the usual way.

Dear Heloise: An old door knob would not stay in place, so I place a piece of nylon net on the shank, rubbed on some metal glue, and replaced the knob. I trimmed off the protruding edges of net with a razor blade, and the job was completed.

One year has passed, and the knob is still in place.

Dear Heloise: I don't find fancy spoon rests very practical, especially when cooking a number of foods at the same time.

Instead, I use a large paper plate which will accommodate all the spoons and forks I need, and when I'm through, out goes the plate, with no fuss or muss. I like this idea — perhaps your readers will, too.

Enlarged Pinecrest Invites Public

VISITORS TO Pinecrest Medicare Facility's open house and dedication on Sunday, Nov. 7 will see the great transformation pictured here. The sun porch was constructed in 1922 when the first unit of Pinecrest Tuberculosis Sanatorium was created. The open porch permitted patients to get fresh air and sunshine. The other picture shows the transformation after 43 years of the same area into 4-bed patients rooms, with lockers, lavatories and toilet facilities in every room.

Lutherans Invite Young People To Milwaukee Tour

Ski Facilities Are Improved

Senior High youth of Delta County are invited to join with other U. P. youth on a Greyhound Lines bus trip to Milwaukee this weekend. Lutheran Churches in the Copper Country area chartered the bus and have room for 15 more young people from this area.

The tour will pass through Iron Mountain about midnight Friday, will breakfast at the LCA headquarters office in Milwaukee Friday morning, then will visit an automated industry.

The young people will visit the largest Roman Catholic cathedral in Milwaukee where priests will explain their church, its liturgy, symbolism, priestly habit; then proceed to the largest Jewish Temple in Milwaukee where the rabbis will explain the intricate forms, practices and rituals of their temple worship, and visit a Greek Orthodox Catholic Church for an informative period.

The wealthiest and the poorest areas of Milwaukee will be visited on a guided tour. Noon lunch Saturday will be at the Fox Point Lutheran Church and dinner at another Milwaukee LCA Lutheran Church.

Lutheran youth will be given first priority, but other youth will have an opportunity to join the tour as room permits. Interested are asked to phone Rev. Erlend E. Carlson, pastor of Christ The King Lutheran Church, ST 6-7988 for further details. The deadline is today at 11 p. m.

Kay Sleik Named Ag Board Officer

A fruit grower, a beef and general farm owner, and an Upper Peninsula woman who represents consumers became officers of the Michigan Commission of Agriculture at the commission's annual meeting in Lansing Oct. 12.

Donald R. Barden, South Haven fruit grower, became commission chairman, succeeding Edward J. Wright of Saginaw. Blaque C. Knirk, Quincy beef farmer, was elected vice chairman, to succeed Barden. Mrs. Kay D. Sleik of Iron Mountain was elected secretary. She succeeds Knirk.

U. P. Tourist Association To Elect Officers

Decision on the 1966 operating budget and special promotional programs for the Upper Michigan Tourist Association will be reached Friday, Oct. 29, at the annual meeting of the organization in the Dickinson Hotel, Iron Mountain.

Members will elect officers, hear annual reports on advertising and publicity activities, and decide on the extent of participation in Midwestern sports and travel shows.

Present officers are Clyde Hecox, Marquette, president; Gene Carole, Iron Mountain, vice president; and James Bradlock, Marquette, treasurer. Ken Dorman, Houghton, is the executive secretary.

For the past month, UMTA equipment, supplies and records have been brought to Iron Mountain from Marquette — headquarters of the association and its predecessor, the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau, for more than 50 years — and set up in the new Dickinson County Area Chamber of Commerce building. It is expected the UMTA will be in full operation by Nov. 1 or shortly thereafter.

The whirling dervish ceremony in Konya, Turkey, held annually on Dec. 17, commemorates the death of Jala-od-din Rumi. He was the 13th Century Persian poet who was the spiritual founder of the Mevlevi order of dancing dervishes.

The story of this North County's winter attractions will be told in detail at exhibits to be set up at ski travel exhibitions in Minneapolis, Detroit and Chicago this fall. The Upper Michigan Tourist Association is cooperating with the U. P. ski resorts in sponsoring the exhibits.

The slogan for each of the exhibits will be "Move Up — Ski U. P." Several of the commercial resorts in the Peninsula, many of which operated at near-capacity last winter, already have announced expansion projects undertaken to provide better facilities and services for 1965-66 visitors.

One of the biggest remodeling projects is at Ironhead Mountain, in the Ironhead area, where $300,000 is being spent in expanding the lodge and other facilities, reflecting the increase in the number of skiers who enjoyed this popular outdoor sport in western Upper Peninsula a year ago.

A new chalet and T-bar at Michigan Tech's Mount Ripley, Hancock; another chair lift at Pine Mountain, in the Iron Mountain-Kingsford area; and lodge facilities are being rebuilt at the Ironhead Mountain resort near Brimley in ski facility improvements.

Briefly Told

The citizen-cost for defense in the United States is $281 (not $2.81) annually, Escanaba Rotarians were informed at their meeting Tuesday in a talk by Mrs. Frank Neumeier of the League of Women Voters. This compares to a per-citizen-cost of 98 cents for the United Nations.

James D. Putnam, whose letter from Viet Nam appeared in the Daily Press on Wednesday, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Putnam (not Emil) Putnam of Ford River.

The American victory at New Orleans, coming after the War of 1812 was over, had far-reaching effects, historians say. They say it hastened ratification of the peace treaty, increased the prestige of a new nation, gave Americans confidence in their military prowess and encouraged the growth of national unity.

Voelker Heroine Negaunee Indian

By KENNETH S. LOWE

"Laughing Whitefish," John D. Voelker's first historical novel, is cast in the mold of his best-selling "Anatomy of a Murder" and just might prove almost as successful as its famous forerunner.

Published by McGraw-Hill, "Laughing Whitefish," like "Anatomy," is the story of a trial. But whereas the "Anatomy" trial involved a criminal case tried before a jury, the "Whitefish" trial involves a civil case tried before a judge.

Voelker, writing under the pen name of Robert Traver, bases his novel on an actual case stemming from the discovery of iron ore in Negaunee and the subsequent claim of his Indian heroine, Laughing Whitefish, against the corporation which profited heavily from the discovery after her father had pointed out the fabulous ore deposits to prospectors.

Willy Pre, Voelker's hero and the narrator of the story, is a young lawyer who comes to Marquette from Ann Arbor in 1873 and represents Laughing Whitefish in court.

"I first heard the bare outline of this story many years ago from the lips of my old circuit judge, Frank A. Bell, when I was a struggling young district attorney practicing before him," says Voelker in his author's afterward, referring to his days as Marquette prosecuting attorney. "Judge Bell then gave me the citations of the legal cases and I read them avidly and resolved then and there that I would write this story one day if I was able."

Extensive Research
As it turns out, Voelker proved exceptionally able to write the story. He must have undertaken extensive research to gather the facts presented here as fiction, as this historical research is one of the most impressive features of the novel.

Upper Peninsula readers will find the wealth of historical lore especially fascinating, and readers everywhere are likely to be captivated by the courtroom testimony and other legal aspects of the narrative.

As in "Anatomy," the insight into the law is the bulwark of Voelker's writing, and no one is better qualified to write about the legal profession than Voelker, who has seen service as a defense attorney, prosecuting attorney of Marquette County for 14 years and justice of the Michigan Supreme Court.

Nor is anyone better qualified to write about the Upper Peninsula. A native of Ishpeming and still a resident of that city, Voelker has spent almost his entire life in the Upper Peninsula, a brief stint in a Chicago law firm and periodic visits to Lansing to sit on the Supreme Court before he resigned as a justice a few years ago to devote most of his time to writing and trout fishing.

Third Novel
"Laughing Whitefish," is Voelker's third novel and eighth book. Most readers probably will rank it a notch below the celebrated "Anatomy," but several notches above Voelker's other novel, "Hornstein's Boy."

Voelker's first book was a collection of short stories, "Troubleshotter." It was followed by a series of anecdotes published as "Danny and the Boys." The third of his volumes was "Small Town D.A.," a sort of sequel to "Troubleshotter."

None of these made the best-seller lists, but "Anatomy" skyrocketed to the top of the best-seller tables and stayed there almost throughout 1957. Producer-Director Otto Preminger brought the novel to the screen in 1959 in a movie filmed entirely in Marquette County.

By then, Voelker was established as one of the nation's leading writers, and reprints of his earlier books were brought out and sold well.

"Anatomy" was followed by "Trout Madness," a delightful collection of essays on trout fishing. Then came "Hornstein's Boy" and "Anatomy of a Fisherman," a book of striking photos of trout fishing with the text by Voelker.

With many of the ingredients of "Anatomy," Voelker's newest novel seems destined to enjoy a large measure of his first novel's popularity, and Marquette County conceivably could be overrun again by the likes of Jimmy Stewart, Lee Remick, Ben Gazzara and other Hollywood and Broadway types who made up the cast of "Anatomy."

William Konkell Observes His 90th Birthday

By MRS. I. R. NELSON

BARK RIVER — Sunday marked Frank William Konkell's 90th birthday anniversary and his 37th year on the farm a mile or so south of Bark River. In granting the interview, Mr. Konkell said, "This will be the first time I've ever had my name in the papers."

He was born Oct. 17, 1875, in Clay Banks, Door County, Wis., to Jacob Konkell and his wife, the former Odella Zastrow, aunt of Edward Zastrow of Bark River. His mother died when he was 13 and he lived with an uncle, William Zastrow, until his father in Annapolis, now Algoma, remarried several years later.

In 1894, he went to Faunus where he worked in the sawmill. On July 4, 1897, he married Pauline Stebbins of Faunus in Escanaba. Their attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kuss of Faunus, later of Escanaba.

The Konkells lived on the Henry Peterson farm in Spalding, then moved to Marquette where he delivered milk to the Morgan Heights Sanatorium for a number of years. From Marquette they went to Blaney, then back to the Wagner farm in Powers. The last move was to the farm in Bark River in 1928.

Mrs. Konkell fell last February and broke her hip and is presently a patient at Pinecrest Medicare Facility in Powers. They are members of Grace Lutheran Evangelical Church in Powers.

They have five children living: Mrs. William (Nona) Dusterhoft, Kenosha, Wis.; Carl, Bark River; Del at home; Ralph Mobile, Ala.; and Frank William (Bill), Hayward, Calif.

Star-spangled gift idea

You can put $50 into someone's future with U. S. Savings Bonds—and the cost is only $37.50.

You can also be pretty sure your gift will be used for something pretty important. Because most people hang onto their Savings Bonds until something important comes up. Like college tuition, a new baby, and retirement day.

Something else. You give more than money with U. S. Savings Bonds. In a small, but vital way you give freedom, too. Because Bond dollars do a lot to help Uncle Sam stand tall in this troubled world of ours.

Prices start at just $18.75 for the $25 size. Why not give Bonds for special occasions to all those "special" people? Yourself included.

OFFICE ROCKS WITH ROLL
CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—The Police Department was rocked when a weird package rolled into Chief Eugene McGovern's office.

The package, addressed to Commissioner James Bookie Turner, contained a transistor radio—turned on and playing rock and roll music.

It was playing when it was mailed, sang its way through the Post Office and twisted from the postman to the chief's desk.

McGovern said that since it was personally addressed to Turner, it would have to keep playing, unopened, until the commissioner returned from an out-of-town trip.

The chief said the package was an advertising gimmick aimed at boosting a local radio station which features rock and roll music.

"Those darned batteries sure are strong," McGovern sighed.

Comet Continues Space Display

NEW YORK (UPI) — Comet Ikeya-Seki reached its closest point to the sun today in the course of its fiery loop through the heart of the solar system.

In what was called the greatest space spectacular of the century, the comet and its 10 million mile tail of glowing gases streaked through the sky setting off celestial fireworks which elated scientists watching throughout the world.

Gary Ahlin Is Enrolled At Peru College

BARK RIVER — Gary Ahlin of Bark River, is among the 1,041 students enrolled at Peru State College, Peru, Nebr., for the 1965-66 fall semester.

Full-time enrollment has increased sharply from 723 a year ago to 943 this fall, up 30.4 per cent. Part-time enrollment dropped from 143 to 98.

In Service

First Lt. James Bugay, of the 8th Infantry, U. S. Army, in Mannheim, Germany, has been promoted to captain. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Bugay of Bark River and is wed to Patricia Lindstrom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lindstrom, 629 S. 15th St. They have two sons, Steven and David. The Bugay's have been in Germany for a year and will be there two more years.

Though it is a native American grain, corn is more widely cultivated around the world than any other crop.

As the comet made its hair-pin turn around the sun delighted astronomers reported it was living up to expectations. Many amateur skywatchers, especially in the northeastern section of the country, were disappointed because haze blocked their view.

Along the West Coast, in Alaska and Hawaii, stargazers were in the best positions from which to view the comet racing through the heavens about 1,000,000 miles per hour under the immense pressure of the sun's gravitational pull.

In the northeastern United States, a temperature inversion preventing the normal dispersion of haze, made it nearly impossible for viewers on the ground to see Ikeya-Seki.

A jet plane was carrying astronomers from the Hayden Planetarium and newsmen left before dawn to get a glimpse, if possible, of the first major comet to approach the earth since Halley's Comet in 1910.

Major sightings were reported Wednesday from the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory in Cambridge, Mass. Its director, Dr. Fred Whipple, said the comet's blazing passage was "living up to the expectations of the scientists."

Other sightings of the comet racing to a point within 800,000 miles of the sun, were reported at Fort Worth, Tex., Flagstaff, Ariz., and Las Cruces, N.M.
